Objective:

To create awareness among students with regards to various career opportunities in the field of psychology.

Participants' Profile:

The seminar was organised for the students of SY BA from the Psychology Department.

Proceedings:

The awareness seminar on careers in psychology started with an introduction to the field of psychology, its significance, and the various specialisations within psychology. The participants were informed about the educational paths, required degrees, and licensing processes. Different career options, such as clinical, counselling, research, and industrial psychology, were explored, along with the skill sets needed for each. Ma'am Aafreen, shared her experiences and provided real-world insights. Interactive elements like Q&A seminars and case studies engage participants. The seminar concluded by emphasising the importance of empathy, ethical considerations, and ongoing professional development in psychology careers, inspiring participants to consider these paths and pursue further exploration if interested.

Outcome:

Students gained insights into different career options, industries, and job roles. The seminar empowered them to make more informed decisions about their career paths based on a better understanding of available opportunities. They were able to identify short-term and long-term objectives, creating a roadmap for their professional development. By learning about the skills and qualifications required for various careers, students can take proactive steps to develop the skills they need. They discovered unconventional or less-known career paths they hadn't considered before. This opened up new avenues and broadened their perspectives. As students became more informed about their options they could plan and often gain more confidence in their ability to navigate their career journey.
